13) How many patients waited for a bed in the Trust for 48 hours on A&E trolleys as described by Lisa Smyth in her Belfast Telegraph article	14	1	15	COVID has complicated patient journeys in relation to admission which result in delays in ED. It is inaccurate to describe as waiting on trolleys - the main reason for delay is the need for isolation awaiting COVID status - meaning patients are nursed in single rooms and in beds

13) How many patients waited for a bed in the Trust for 48 hours on A&E trolleys as described by Lisa Smyth in her Belfast Telegraph article Where COVID Related	0	0	0
14) How many of those waiting for 48 hours were in the 80+ age group?	5	1	6
15) How many patients waited for a bed in the Trust for over 24 hours on A&E trolleys?	71	43	114
16) How many patients waited for a bed in the Trust for over 3 hours on A&E trolleys?	364	141	505
17) What were the main reasons for the wait?	Patients waiting for beds in ED are a symptom of a significant level of pressure on the whole unscheduled care system. One significant reason for delay is awaiting outcome of COVID swab results and need for isolation until known. While we would prefer not to have patients waiting in ED we focus on delivering safe, effective care to those who do.
